After Parading Before Audience They Compete for Prizes at Regular Show.

SCHEME IS A SUCCESS

The dog reigned at the Hippodrome three days last week when dog shows were held during the performance of "Hip-Hip-Horay," and many exhib-itors participated in the Fifth ave-nue parade of the third scene accom-panied by their entries. The innovation introduced by Mark Luescher of the Hippodrome staff was received enthusiastically by all dog lovers throughout the city, and the entry which turned out on each of the three days was a revelation to the management.

The outburst of applause that greeted the different dog owners when they paraded across the stage leading their massive Great Danes, diminutive Chi-huahuas, beautiful Pekingese, fluffy Maltese terriers or sturdy bulldogs proved conclusively that the feature was appreciated by the audience. After the parade across the stage the dogs were taken below and a miniature dog show was held. The various breeds were di-vided into classes and ribbons were given to the winners, and the best and second in the show received bandsome trophies. The quality of the exhibits throughout the three days of judging was unusually high, and the winners were for the most part dogs that are well known on the regular dog show circuit. On Monday a massive Great Dane named Prince Wiseneau owned by Tharles Ludwig won the trophy for best log in the show. Prince, a massive awn of good conformation, is one of the hest specimens of his breed on the bench to-day, and while many of the gentler sex present thought that one of the Pekingese or more attractive looking on Tuesday. At the right, Miss toy dogs present should have received the cup, Judging by the standard, the Dane was the winner by a considerable ranian Pomeria Wasp, best in the

ENGLISHWOMAN ACTS AS JUDGE OF POMS

Miss Edith Barry Places Pomeria Wasp First at Show in McAlpin.

The American Pomeranian Club held a specialty match at the Hotel McAlpin last Wednesday afternoon, and although the entry that turned out was not large the quality of the exhibits more than made up for the lack of quantity. The event was a sort of preliminary to the big show for Poms which is to be held some time in Lanuary, and naturally the big show for Poms which is to be held some time in January, and naturally the different owners were looking for some sort of sign which might tell them that they had a champlon in the making.

Miss Edith Burry of England was the Judge, and as she was not slow to point out defects her awards were received with accord in the majority of the classes. Miss Marion Kennedy's Pomeria Wasp received the prize for the best dog of either sex in the show. Mrs. Emma S. Allard's bitch Offley Mites Sunflower was reserve. This decision was the occasion for a slight difference of opinion among the ringsiders, as many thought that the bitch should have been better coat and that her ear carriage was better than that of the winner. It can be said for the winner, however, that he showed with much more spirit. Many fine youngsters were brought out and the quality of the young American breds present speaks in high terms for the skill of the different breeders.

Mrs. H. C. Smyth, president of the club, showed a fine home bred. Banuer Flyshowed. showed a fine home bred, Banner Fly away Kim, which was placed reserve winner to Wasp in the dog winner class. This dog was bred by Mrs. Smyth class. This dog was bred by Mrs. Smyth, and is a high quality dog. He has been a consistent winner at the regular A. K. C. shows, and attained his championship by winning at the recent Asbury Park Kennel Club show. In the bitch classes Mrs. Frank T. Clarke brought out a good one in Fairfax Sable Lady Love, which won through its classes and was placed reserve to Offley Mites Sunflower in the bitch winners class. A good puppy shown was Miss Elsie Hydon's Miss Brown, which won first in don's Miss Brown, which won first in
